DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-36, drawn to a print media having conductive patterns, classified in class 235, subclass 492.
- II. Claims 37-57, drawn to the layer structure of a more general record, classified in class 235, subclass 487.
- III. Claims 58-92, drawn to a method of manufacturing a print media having conductive patterns thereon, classified in class 235, subclass 492.
- IV. Claims 93-111, drawn to another method of manufacturing a print media having conductive patterns thereon, classified in class 235, subclass 494.
- V. Claims 112-141, drawn to a method of registering, authenticating and detecting media of conductive patterns thereon, classified in class 235, subclass 495.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention II has separate utility such as a layering structure for another card having a different encoding scheme. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Inventions I and III are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case invention III is a process of making invention I.

Inventions I and IV are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case invention IV is a process of making invention I (different from invention III).

Inventions I and V are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case, the inventions under group V are methods of organizing, reading, differentiating and identifying media encoded with the conductive patterns of invention I, rather than invention I itself.

Art Unit: 2876

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
